PurePower Technologies and Alliant Power have announced that they have entered a joint agreement to have Alliant distribute PurePower's injectors. The move will allow PurePower to supply their full line of high-precision diesel fuel injectors to Alliant for distribution throughout their network. Jerry Sweetland, president and CEO of PurePower, said, "This distribution agreement with Alliant Power, the leading supplier of replacement engine components for diesel powered vehicles and equipment, really opens up another new distribution channel for us. This is a vital step in our strategic plan to continue our aggressive growth and expansion into new markets throughout the country."
